ABOUT OUR TEAM

The Autism Clinics at Hope provide a unique range of services through our highly qualified and credentialed staff:

Board Certified Behavior Analysts (BCBA®)
Your child is unique, and our certified Behavior Analysts will develop individual treatment plans that best meet their needs. Using your child's strengths, our BCBA's develop these plans to help them reach their social, communication, school-readiness, and behavioral goals.

Registered Behavior Technicians (RBT®)
For any plan to be successful, it needs a team of people working together to achieve meaningful results. Our RBTs work with your child in one-on-one and group sessions so that learned skills transfer to help them be successful at home, in the classroom, and in the community.

Site Directors
The Autism Clinic Site Directors are responsible for creating safe and engaging spaces for therapy. They create and maintain therapy schedules that ensure consistency week to week and oversee the training and support of all site employees.

Every Child Deserves Hope

Hope
Autism Clinic

The Autism Clinic at Hope is committed to giving children with autism spectrum disorder professional care and attention so they can soar. We know that the best caregivers are families and we offer the training, advice and support that parents and other family members need.

For more than a half century, Hope has pursued a single mission: to help children with disabilities achieve their full potential. We have carefully cultivated a culture of hope for children, no matter how great the challenges they may face.

We are proud to continue that tradition with The Autism Clinic at Hope.

Now there's Hope to help your child reach full potential.

AT THE CLINIC

Applied Behavior Analysis (ABA)

Our ABA intervention services hit the core of helping children with autism by following one simple rule: every child is unique, and we have to help them to best reflect those special needs. Through our ABA program, children learn by playing with their peers and with small group activities. Some learn to communicate by exchanging pictures or using an iPad. Others expand their verbal skills. We plan activities that encourage the children to interact – making dirt pudding, erupting baking soda volcanoes, and playing water balloon T-Ball. These activities offer the chance to practice how to attend and participate with age-appropriate lessons and learn from others through board games, dramatic play and conversation volleys.

Social Skills Groups

"My child just doesn't seem to get what people mean sometimes."

We hear this from parents often, and help them understand that children with autism need help learning how to socialize, much as their peers learn academics. Our small groups meet weekly, where children practice life skills such as maintaining a conversation, and respecting personal space.

Screenings and Diagnostics

"I'm concerned my child might have ASD."

Hope understands the fear and uncertainty that comes with the early suspicions about autism. We're here to guide you through the process with years of clinical expertise using gold standard assessment tools, and the right questions are asked and answered:

- What signs should I be looking for?
- How early can a child be diagnosed with ASD?
- How do I help my child down this unknown path?

AT HOME

Parent Education and Support

"I have difficulty getting my child ready for school and completing my daily routines."

Learning happens everywhere, not just in a clinic or classroom. Our Board Certified Behavior Analysts (BCBAs) provide education and support for parents or caregivers who may have difficulty within their child's skill development or routines within the home.

COLLABORATION

Working Together To Support Every Child

"When families, educators, and clinicians work together, children don't just grow—they thrive."

At Hope we believe meaningful progress is made when everyone works together. Collaboration is at the heart of our approach—whether it's partnering with teachers to implement evidence-based strategies in the classroom, working with other therapists and providers to ensure consistent care, or helping families and schools navigate challenges together.

Our Board Certified Behavior Analysts offer classroom consultations, attend IEP meetings when needed, and provide professional development to educators. By building strong partnerships with schools and professionals, we create a unified team that surrounds each child with the support they need to thrive—in every environment.
